

“Authentic Leadership

JANE SANDERS^P

The Confidence Connection”

The most savvy leaders understand that their character and vision spring from their natural gifts and strengths...their authenticity. They know that self-awareness is a prerequisite to their authenticity, and therefore, successful leadership.

However, as people have aspired to leadership positions, many - especially women - have suppressed their natural balance of feminine-to-masculine qualities, trying to fit into the “man’s world of business.” They get off-track from their natural strengths, and whether or not they realize it, their confidence suffers. Bringing people back into alignment with their authenticity and innate confidence will help optimize their leadership success and improve performance, productivity, and competitive edge.

In this interactive, high-energy session, learn ways to access and use your natural confidence for effective leadership and career advancement!
